

SVENSKA KENNELKLUBBEN
HUNDÄGARNAS RIKSORGANISATION

The Swedish Kennel Club

The Swedish Kennel Club (SKK) is a non-profit organisation. We register micro chipped and tattooed dogs and cats in our database. You find us at: <http://kennet.skk.se/agarreg> and www.skk.se

Returning home after many years

Every day lost animals are reunited with their owners thanks to the fact that they are registered. This is the story of one of them.

One week ago we received a phone call from a couple. They wanted to thank us for helping their cat and told us a story that began several years ago. The couple had a cat that was sadly caught by a large bird of prey. They had witnessed the event themselves and when the cat did not return home they assumed that he was dead and that the bird had killed him.

Then suddenly last week, after several years, a lady phoned them and informed them that she had found their cat. The couple was sceptic at first. It could not possibly be their cat and so they told the finder. They ended the call, believing that there must be some mistake.

Yet, when they thought things over they started to feel uncertain. The lady who phoned them had sounded certain, the cat had the correct id-number and she had found the owners through the SKK data base. Could it be possible that their cat actually had survived the birds attack?

There was only one way to find out so the couple phoned the finder back to arrange a meeting. When they at last met the cat they recognized him as theirs! They were very happy to get their much missed cat back after several years, and relieved to know that he had in fact not been killed by the bird who took him. Still no one knows how the cat escaped from the large bird of prey, or how he managed to survive during the years away from home. All we know is that he is now happily reunited with his family thanks to the fact that he was registered.

